

TIANJIN AIRLINE

A-330, A-320, E-190

Transition from E-190 to A-320 to A-330 available

Tianjin was founded in 2009 and is based in Tianjin, China. Tianjin Airlines Co., Ltd. is a subsidiary of Hainan Airlines Co., Ltd. As an aviation enterprise co-established by Tianjin government and HNA Group, Tianjin Airlines owns a young and deluxe fleet mainly consisting of A-330s, A320s, E190s and E145s. In August of 2017, Tianjin's fleet totaled 95 aircraft with 20 E-190s on order.

On July 3rd, 2017, Tianjin Airlines successfully started to operate the international flight between Tianjin and Vladivostok. The launch of the flight represents rapid pace of Tianjin Airlines' internationalization. In future, Tianjin Airlines will be devoted to constructing Tianjin as the second air passage after Beijing. In 2017, Tianjin Airlines will launch new air routes from Tianjin to Xi'an to London and from Chongqing to Melbourne. In future, Tianjin Airlines plans to open more air routes from China to Europe, America and Oceania, such as to Paris, New York, San Francisco and Saipan. So far, Tianjin Airlines has operated 30 international air routes, including air routes from Tianjin, Xi'an, Haikou, Dalian and other air bases to regions and countries such as Japan, South Korea, Russia, Cambodia, Thailand, UK and New Zealand. Flights have covered more than 100 cities and annual passenger traffic has exceeded 12 million.

Tianjin Airlines has built up an airline network with Tianjin, Xi'an, Urumqi, Nanning and Guiyang as major hubs, and opened 137 domestic and international routes to more than 80 cities. With excellent operating quality and outstanding service quality, Tianjin Airlines was awarded 'Best Domestic Regional Airlines of China' and 'World 4-star Airlines' by SKYTRAX in 2011.
